APREA's Terms of Membership

Approval of Membership

All new memberships are subject to approval by the APREA board of directors. Upon approval, membership becomes effective on the first day of the month following approval.

Voting Rights

Only Full Members are entitled to vote at APREA's general meetings. However, all members are eligible to participate in member roundtables/committees and activities, including chapter boards.

Representatives

APREA membership is by entities/corporations, which appoint individuals to represent them.

Each company is asked to appoint a principal representative and one alternate to exercise the rights of corporate membership. These representatives automatically qualify as the nominated proxies for the member company at general meetings and are authorised to transfer their proxy by way of an appropriate legal instrument.

Representatives should be of C-suite status or board members.

Apart from the principal and alternate representative, all employees of the member company (and its direct subsidiaries) may participate in APREA activities, which includes representing the member entity on APREA member roundtables/committees.
